THE MERRY MARRIAGE BELL

THE HOME WEDDINGS ARE ALL THE GO.

Pretty Littlestown Wedding—Other June Weddings Throughout the County.

CROUSE—KUMP.—Paul Guy Crouse and Miss Lesbia Escher Kump, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Kump, of Littlestown, were married Wednesday evening, June 21, at 7 o'clock, at the home of the bride. The ceremony took place in the parlor beneath an arch of greens and white Easter lilies from which was suspended a nuptial bell. The wedding march was played by Homer Rebert as the wedding party descended the main stairway into the parlor. The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe meteor over taffeta and a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Mary Huff, of Littlestown, wore a gown of pink satin messaline and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Basehoar and Miss Marie Dutera, both of Littlestown. They wore white satin messaline and carried pink roses. Malcolm Weaver, of Littlestown, was the best man and the ushers were Dr. D. R. Hartman of Liberty, N. Y., and Walter Crouse of Littlestown. The flower girl and boy were Miss Katharine Keagy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Keagy, of Hanover, and Master Fred Hartman of Liberty, N. Y., and Walter Crouse of Littlestown. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Jay Hill, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, and the bride was given away by her father, George S. Kump. A reception followed the wedding, after which the bride and groom left by automobile for Hanover, taking a late car for York, to start from there for Delaware Water Gap. Upon their return they will reside in Littlestown where Mr. Crouse is engaged in the insurance business. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Crouse of Littlestown. Dr. N. C. Gitt of this place attended the wedding.

OYLER—HOFFMAN.—A very pretty wedding took place last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Hoffman in Arendtsville, when their daughter, Miss Lulu M. Hoffman and William Oyler of near Arendtsville, were married by the Rev. D. T. Koser. The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and lilies. The bride wore a gown of white marquisette trimmed in handmade lace. The bride and groom were unattended. Miss Ruth Koser played the wedding march. Scarcely had the ceremony been concluded when an unusually large calithumpian band gave a serenade after which refreshments were served to the invited guests, some sixty in number. Mr. and Mrs. Oyler left on a wedding tour to Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Atlantic City.

BAISH—ELDER.—Prof. Harry H. Baish, superintendent of the public schools of Altoona, was married Tuesday, June 30, to Miss Ruth Elder, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Elder of Altoona. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home by Rev. H. L. Bowling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. W. B. Wilson, pastor of the Second United Brethren church. The couple sailed Wednesday on the Lusitania to spend their honeymoon in Europe. While abroad Prof. Baish will study the English system of education. Prof. Baish is well known in Adams county being a native of Menallen township.

THOMAS—BROWN.—LeRoy H. Thomas, of Bradford, Pa., the only son of Daniel A. Thomas, Esq., and Mrs. Thomas, of Idaville, was married on the 19th instant to Miss Brown of Bradford, and they took their wedding trip to Adams County, arriving in Idaville on Tuesday, and visiting Gettysburg last Thursday. They experienced an exciting incident at the P. & R. station here, when frightened horses in another conveyance pulled off a wheel of the one which they had taken for the Hotel Wabash, causing no little alarm, but no serious injury to the occupants.

THOMAS—FIDLER.—At the home of the brides parents Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Fidler near Heidelsburg, on Thursday evening, June 22 at 8:30 o'clock, by Rev. E. E. Dietterich, Robert J. D. Thomas of Biglerville and Miss Mabel I. Fidler were united in marriage. It was intended to be a very quiet wedding no one witnessing the ceremony other than the immediate family except Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brame. After the ceremony a bountiful supper was served. After the supper the usual calithumpian band came and gave them some rattling music set to rag time.

TROSTLE—KOONTZ.—Harry B. Trostle of York Springs and Miss Maude Koontz of Harrisburg, were married at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. E. H. Trostle, in York Springs on Monday evening of last week by Rev. Paul Gladfelter. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Koontz of Harrisburg, and the groom is the well-known horse dealer of York Springs.

LANZINGER—MALBURG.—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Malburg, in Scranton, June 13th, Norman J. Lanzinger was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Malburg.

The bride was formerly a student at the Temple College of Music, in Philadelphia. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lanzinger of Conowingo township. He is an automobile machinist employed in Philadelphia, where the young couple will reside.

STARR—HINDSLEY.—Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Baynard announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Mary Ann Hindsley, to Francis A. Starr, both of Philadelphia. The bride is a graduate of Goucher College, formerly the Woman's College, Baltimore, Md., and is well-known in social circles in Baltimore and the south. Mr. Starr is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Starr of Littlestown, and is in business in North Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Starr will reside at their newly furnished home in Tioga.

MARKS—SPENCE.—Wm. J. Marks of Biglerville and Miss Fannie M. Spence daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linn Spence of Orrtanna, were married in Sunbury June 14, by Rev. S. L. Kthoades.

SWOPE—DICK.—On Monday evening, June 26, Walter Earl Swope and Hester Dick were joined in wedlock by Father Whalen in St. Francis Xavier Church. Leo Dick brother of the bride, and Miss Rebecca Cramer were the groomsmen and bridesmaid. The young couple will reside here. A number of their friends were at the church door to greet them with good wishes and congratulations.

NATIVES MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Foul Play is Suspected as Explanation of Mervin Bowers' Death.

Mystery surrounds the death of Mervin A. Bowers, a former resident of Adams county, whose dead body was found in St. James Lake, at St. Louis, Mo., June 19. Foul play is suspected, and a former friend of the young man, Edward Kreuger, a saloon keeper of that city, is charged with the murder. The news of the tragedy was received by relatives in this place, during the week, and from the "St. Louis Republic" we glean the following story: Bowers, who had been employed as a bar clerk in that city for several years, went to the lake Sunday morning, June 11th, in an automobile, with Kreuger and his wife, J. A. Bright and two others. The five friends returned later in the morning, very much excited, and reported that Bowers had been drowned. A search was immediately instituted, with no success, and it was believed the body had become entangled in the weeds.

The body was not recovered until more than a week afterward, when it was found floating perpendicularly in the lake. This is said by physicians to be an almost infallible sign that the person died otherwise than by drowning. The coroner was further horrified to find that the man's neck had been broken, and the examination also revealed no water in the lungs.

A mass of other evidence of a circumstantial nature has been secured by Constable Schonbein, of that city, and will be produced at the hearing. The victim of the tragedy is the youngest of ten children of the late Mr. and Mrs. John F. Bowers, former residents of Cumberland township, Adams county. He was married to a daughter of Jeremiah Decker, who, with her four children, now lives with her father, near New Oxford. The children are Anna Belle, aged 14, Desie V., aged 12, Gladys S., aged 9, and Alfred J., aged 7 years.

Bowers was employed on one of the farms of S. L. Johns until 1904, when he left for the St. Louis Exposition. That was the last seen of him by his family, and he never returned East. He was about 35 years old. The following brothers and sisters survive: John P. Bowers of Hanover, Archie T. Bowers of Harrisburg, Mrs. Daniel Spangler and Mrs. Annie Adams of Harrisburg, Mrs. Clayton Hoke and Mrs. George Bowers of Gettysburg, Mrs. Harvey Brown of Huntersville, Mrs. Jesse Angel of Taneytown. With information that the body has been properly buried at St. Louis, the relatives will not have it disinterred and brought home. Word has been received by members of the family from a man who went West with Bowers and he has been communicated with, but at time of going to press no word has been received from him.

By a singular coincidence, the first death in the family was that of a brother Harry, who was drowned at Harrisburg 20 years ago.

New Gettysburg Book.

"Gettysburg, the Pivotal Battle of the Civil War," by R. K. Beecham; A. C. McClurg & Co. Captain Beecham, of the First Brigade, First Division, First Corps, Army of the Potomac, has written a most interesting account of the greatest of the civil war battles. The record is illuminated by many illustrations, including portraits of participants in the mighty struggle.

Visiting Priests.

Rev. Father Edward Reilly Jenkins of Hinton, W. Va., and Rev. Father Germanus Kohl of Conowingo, were visitors here last Wednesday. The former is the son of the late Judge John L. Jenkins, and his mother is a daughter of the late Henry Reilly, all prominent and very worthy people of Conowingo. Father Kohl was formerly the Rector of St. Aloysius, Littlestown and is highly esteemed.

STATE HAS 847 NEW LAWS

THE VETO OF GOVERNOR PUT ON 122 OTHER LAWS.

A List of Recent Acts Which Have Been Completed by Being Published.

Announcement that ninety-six bills passed by the legislature of 1911 had been vetoed since the adjournment on May 25 was made in the south corridor of the state capitol at noon last Saturday in accordance with the law requiring proclamation of vetoes after the general assembly adjourns sine die. The proclamation was read from a gallery by one of the clerks of the secretary of the commonwealth and is the official notice of the vetoes. It is one of the few public proclamation ceremonies surviving from ancient times.

The governor has signed 847 bills and vetoed 122; approved 65 resolutions and vetoed two. Since the legislature adjourned 656 bills have been approved and the ninety-six referred to, vetoed. The others were disposed of before the legislature ended its sittings.

The laws are being printed rapidly in loose leaf form. The COMPILER has previously briefly covered such laws as are of special interest to our people in the first 142 laws received, and the following are found among the laws running from 143 to 263, just at hand.

An act establishing a new county court for the County of Allegheny.

An act providing that the county commissioners may take any public road and make it a county road in accordance with the procedure required.

An amending act providing for and regulating the establishment and maintenance of industrial public schools.

An act exempting from taxation funds held by fire companies, firemen's relief associations, secret and beneficial societies, labor unions and labor union relief associations, and all beneficial organizations for the death benefits. This act going into effect Jan. 1, 1912.

An act to make the wife and husband a competent witness in charge of bigamy alleged to have been committed by or with the other.

An act giving the United States the right to acquire and regulate the State forest reservations.

An act permitting the release on parole of persons acquitted on the grounds of insanity and regulating such releasing.

An act prohibiting the bringing into prison of weapons and all spirituous and fermented liquors, drugs, poisons, narcotics, etc.

An act providing for the appointment by the county commissioners of an inspector of weights and measures, with right to inspect, test, try all weights, scales, beams and measures, with right to enter places and seize such weights and measures as are wrong.

An act to provide for the publishing warrantee tract maps of each county in the State.

An act regulating the taking of exceptions during trial and to acts of the court, the transcribing of the testimony, etc.

An act providing for the escheat of property held in trust without a legal owner.

An act empowering boroughs without petition of the property owners to grade, pave, curb, macadamize and otherwise improve public streets and collect two-thirds of cost from abutting property owners.

An act to require fire drills in public schools.

The School Code approved May 18, 1911, provisions of which have been previously noted.

The State Highway Act, providing for the building of 296 roads, seven entering Gettysburg and an eighth passing through county.

An act relating to the adoption of adult persons as heirs.

An act providing that no commission be allowed county treasurers on moneys returned to county by the State, which were collected by county and upon which the treasurer had already received a commission.

An act authorizing boroughs to unite with boroughs or townships in acquiring, constructing and maintaining a supply of water.

An act regulating the use of firecrackers and making unlawful any firecrackers over six inches in length and three-quarters in diameter and containing picric acid or picrates, dynamite or other high explosive and providing penalties for violations.

An act to provide for the taxation of traction engines.

An act authorizing boroughs to lay out and maintain public parks, even on land outside borough limits.

An act defining malicious injury to railroads and providing a punishment and declaring where the life of a human being shall be destroyed the offender shall be deemed guilty of murder in the first degree and upon conviction thereof shall suffer death.

An act regulating the sale of firecrackers, toy cannons, pistols, etc., and providing penalties for violation.

An act authorizing the commissioners of counties to make appropriations for the maintenance of indigent persons in tuberculosis sanatoriums in the county.

An act authorizing a married woman to make conveyance of real estate to her husband as if she were feme sole.

An act to encourage the breeding of horses, to regulate the public service of stations, and to prevent misrepresentation of same.

An act empowering the proper officials to assist and give medical care and attention upon orders of relief to the pauper injured or sick.

An act authorizing the issuing of search warrants to prevent cruelty to animals.

A resolution expressing wish of citizens of Pennsylvania to have the Panama Canal fortified.

Surprising Recovery.

Miss Josephine Smith who sued and recovered in the court of this county from the borough of Littlestown $5000 for the damages sustained by a fall in Littlestown on June 21, 1909, has been seriously ill in Hanover for weeks. She has been bedfast for fourteen weeks and her physicians had given up all hopes for her recovery. Last week she surprised her many friends by recovering to such an extent as to be out of bed on a reclining chair and indications point to an early partial recovery.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Make it a Safe and Sane Celebration.

Burgess J. A. Holtzworth has issued the following proclamation as to the Fourth of July:

"In conformity with the state law no fire crackers more than six inches in length may be sold in the town and every effort will be put forth to see that those dealing in day and night fireworks comply with the requirements of the state laws governing their sale.

"Dealers are requested to sell no material for Fourth of July celebration until Saturday, July first, and the police will have instructions to prevent any display or any shooting of fire crackers or blank cartridges before after Tuesday the Fourth.

"The citizens of town are requested to use every precaution to protect persons and property."

This community could go further than this proclamation with great propriety. The Civic Club might take up the work of securing the signatures of as many children as possible to the following declaration of independence which is being signed by hundreds of Philadelphia children.

"Whereas, The Fourth of July, known as Independence Day, is our nation's birthday—a day which should be gloriously celebrated and filled with patriotic rejoicing; and

Whereas, The celebration of Independence Day as heretofore conducted has resulted in losses, through fire of millions of dollars' worth of property, serious injuries to thousands and in death to many hundreds of children of our country; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the future citizens of America, hereby declare our independence of the dangerous methods of celebrating our nation's birthday, and agree to celebrate the coming Fourth of July in a manner that will render this anniversary happy, glorious and truly patriotic."

Gettysburg in following the example of a sister town in county could work out a unique celebration. Littlestown on the Fourth will hold a Miss Lizzie Nicks annual picnic as a testimonial to the faithfulness in this grand old lady who has given her life to teaching the primary grade in the schools of that town, for a parade will start for McSherry's grove in the morning made of Miss Lizzie Nicks and her pupils of three generations and a food sale will be a feature to secure funds for "Retired Teacher's Fund." Surely an inspiring event and one that deserves emulation.

Think of the Fourth of July horrors and then don't monkey with the things that can make one of the most horrible deaths, from tetanus. The following provisions are being made to save our children, a better way would be to only celebrate in a safe and sane way.

State Health Commissioner Dixon calls attention to the serious danger attending Fourth of July explosive wounds. In issuing the annual warning—a warning which it is believed has been listened to and heeded, for the number of Independence Day sacrifices has been growing less each year, Dr. Dixon announces also the preventive measures which his Department has arranged to combat tetanus or lock-jaw as a result of injuries from explosives.

The sixty-seven tetanus antitoxin distributing stations will be replenished with a stock of tetanus antitoxin for use among the poor who may be unfortunate enough to be injured on or about the 4th of July, and Dr. Dixon again urges the necessity of prompt use of the antitoxin in cases of wounds received from explosives in order to ward off lockjaw. No such wounds should be considered trivial. Send for a physician at once. If medical aid cannot be secured promptly, wash out the wound thoroughly and apply a hot antiseptic, such a solution as one antiseptic tablet, commercial corrosive sublimate, to five pints of hot water. The injured part should be completely immersed in this solution for a considerable length of time. If these tablets are not available, wash out the wounds thoroughly with pure hydrogen peroxide. If no antiseptics are available or if they are of such temperature that it will favor bleeding from the wound may be of some service. Let there be no delay however, in sending for a physician for death lurks in explosive wounds.

The distributing station in Gettysburg is L. M. Buchler's Drug Store.

Shooting Affray.

Gettysburg was treated on Monday to the excitement of a shooting and cutting affray from a Baltimore colored excursion. The trouble began on the train someone striking Jas. Johnson in the car and he thought it was one Albert Washington. When the excursion train arrived here shortly after the noon hour a large number of the excursionists got off at the Stratton street crossing. Johnson got off there and had his attention called to Washington as the man and he at once said to his companion, "Give me your gun," and the companion holding out his arms, Johnson reached into his hip pocket, got the revolver and turning began to fire at Washington.

Several shots were fired. Washington started on a run to get away from Johnson and latter after him. Washington bolted into the warehouse of C. M. Wolf, who was standing on the warehouse porch with Miss Elsie Horner. Johnson from the curb fired his last shot at Washington disappearing in the doorway and bullet struck him in the back. The bullet entered the back within a fraction of an inch from the backbone and imbedded itself in the flesh and it is believed by Dr. H. L. Diehl, physician to jail, who dressed the wound, that the bullet will give Washington no trouble. The wounded man was able to return to Baltimore on the return train and was directed to go to a hospital.

Johnson with the pistol was immediately caught, several train policemen waded into the crowd and got him and picking up Washington, both were hauled to jail by Allan B. Plank in his plumber's wagon. Johnson has a cut in corner of his left eye which bled freely but eye was not hurt. Another colored man who tried to interfere got his hand cut and it is said knives or razors also figured in the melee.

After hearing in jail, Johnson was committed by Justice of Peace Hill to answer at August court for his crime.

Thrown from Buggy.

Mrs. J. Edward McCammon has been in a serious condition for the past week, the result of an injury received in a runaway. Mrs. McCammon was driving up Baltimore Street in company with her brother-in-law Lloyd Van Doren, when a trace came loose in front of residence of E. M. Bushman. The occupants of the buggy had not noticed the unhooked trace and shaft of buggy soon struck horse and it jumped from side to side, Mr. Van Doren took the lines but right above the home of Dr. W. H. O'Neal the horse gave a sudden lurch upsetting the conveyance. Mrs. McCammon was thrown violently to the ground her face and head striking stones, Mr. Van Doren fell on Mrs. McCammon and escaped with slight injury. Mrs. McCammon was carried into residence of Dr. W. H. O'Neal who gave her immediate attention. She was cut about the head and face and bled profusely, and her slow recovery from the shock seemed to indicate feared internal injuries.

The horse tore down Baltimore St., and at the W. M. depot got free of the buggy and was unhurt when caught.

Mrs. McCammon at this writing is slowly recovering.

The Evergreen Cemetery.

The president and managers of the Evergreen Cemetery Association made a tour of inspection of the cemetery last week. That beautiful city of the dead showed a well kept condition with the exception of such grave-stones as have fallen out of line and some iron fencing out of repair. The Board directed the keeper to employ helpers and to straighten every gravestone in the cemetery and where the owner of lot could be found to send bill for work to owner and where no owner could be found the bill would be paid by the association. Several iron fences in bad condition were ordered to be removed unless owners repaired and painted same.

The work of the association in recent years in cleaning out woods and keeping it clean, in building driveways and keeping the place in a well kept condition throughout has opened up and made desirable many lots. At the present rate of lot selling all the lots in the cemetery will be sold within the next three or four years.

As needed the twelve acres immediately south of the present cemetery will be opened for burial purposes. The opening of the same will require landscape gardening, fencing, road building, plotting and other heavy expenses and our people could help this good work by provisions for same by legacy or donations during life, or by the purchase of endowed lots and some of the most desirable lots in the present cemetery confines on the southern side can be had at $75 perpetually endowed.

EARLY'S RAID 48 YEARS AGO HOW THE COMPILER OF THAT DAY TOLD THE STORY.

A Story of a York Citizen of What the Raiders Did in that Town.

Gen. Early came to Gettysburg on Friday, June 26, on his expedition to reach the bridge at Columbia and crossing it to attack Harrisburg. He left Gettysburg on his way to York on Saturday morning, June 27. The following Monday was publication day for the COMPILER and with the town between Early's troops and the main body of the enemy, the publisher of a paper had to be careful in handling the situation for if offense should be given or feeling stirred up, a publisher might be made to suffer and his property destroyed. The publisher of the COMPILER handled the situation rather boldly, calling the invaders rebels and hoping that they be overtaken and punished. The following extracts from the COMPILER of June 29, 1863 show how the situation was handled.

Our usually quiet town was kept in a high state of excitement all last week. Reports of the advance of the rebels were brought in almost every day, but all proved untrue until Friday. On that day persons from Cash-town and vicinity reported having seen them in force. The 26th P. V. M., Col. Jennings, was sent up the road, and when about three miles from the town the rebel cavalry came upon them, capturing some forty of the regiment. The balance got off, but at the time of writing (Saturday noon) we are not advised of their whereabouts.

At about 3 o'clock, sure enough, the rebel advance (cavalry) entered Gettysburg, charging up Chambersburg street at a rapid rate, in pursuit of a number of persons on horseback who were hurrying off down York street. They fired a few shots, and the pursued were halted. In a few moments they had entire possession of the town, and their guards around it. They assured the citizens that they would not harm them, and fears should be quieted. This advance consisted of about one hundred and fifty men—White's cavalry.

In half an hour afterwards a (Georgia) brigade of infantry entered the town—General Early in command. This brigade is variously estimated at from 2500 to 4000. We think the number was about midway between these two figures. Probably half of them quartered in town—in the court house and on the pavements—the balance in the neighborhood.

In the evening several hundred more cavalry came in; also a battery of artillery. We are told that another battery, with infantry and baggage wagons, encamped on the Mummastown road, a mile from town. There is much difficulty in getting all the facts.

The railroad bridge across Rock Creek was soon set on fire by the rebels, and whilst in a blaze a number of cars were ignited and started down the track, but they passed over the bridge and were consumed just beyond. Altogether, we are told, that seventeen cars were burnt, one belonging to W. E. Biddle, one to the Hanover Branch, two to Stein & Young, two to the Northern Central, and the balance to the Pennsylvania Central Railroad. The center span of the bridge was burnt and fell in. The other two are standing but badly damaged. One of the cars contained government stores for Col. Jennings' regiment (used by the rebels) and another a lot of muskets. The balance of the cars were empty. The rebels did not take any of the guns, declaring that they had enough already. No other property was fired. The line cars were all spared.

As soon as the rebels got here they looted for the stores, desiring to purchase boots, hats, etc. As the storekeepers had previously removed nearly all their goods, there was little left for the rebels. However, they secured a number of hundred dollars worth, generally paying for them, but in their own kind of money, which is not regarded as of much value here.

They captured horses in the town and neighborhood, but we presume the number was small, as nearly everything in the shape of horseflesh had been taken away days before. They "pressed" a number of barrels of whiskey, sugar, etc., receiving therefor—payment no doubt indefinite.

On Saturday morning the division moved off, down the York turnpike, and by 8 o'clock there was not a gray-back in the town.

Their deportment generally was civil. Many of them courted conversation, and were not disposed to interfere with anybody for exercising the largest liberty of speech. In capturing horses, &c., they made no distinctions. Democrats and Republicans suffering alike.

The Philadelphia City Troops and Bell's Cavalry retired from town a short time before the rebels entered. We presume they made their retreat safely. The telegraph operator also got away, with his instruments, in time.

Upon the rebel cavalry entering the town they branched off into the several streets. One squad hurried out Baltimore street in pursuit of persons taking away their horses. They caught several of them and took their horses. One rebel went down the turnpike as far as Nathaniel Lightner's where he came upon two of Bell's Cavalry. The rebel shot one of them, Mr. George Sandoe, killing him on the spot. There was probably shooting on both sides as several shots were heard. Mr. Sandoe was an estimable young man and leaves a wife and many other relatives to mourn his early death. The body was removed to his home the same evening.

The thirty-six prisoners of the 26th Regt. P. V. M., were paroled here by the rebels. Two officers captured they took with them.

LATER—MONDAY MORNING.
The brigade of rebels which left this place on Saturday morning is reported to have gone down the York turnpike, the cavalry branching off in various directions. No depredations of consequence were committed at Oxford or Hanover. All the bridges were burnt on the Gettysburg Railroad. Goulden's warehouse, containing probably a thousand bushels of grain, was also destroyed by fire. Hann's warehouse was visited but upon Mr. Hann assuring them that there was nothing there intended for the government, it was spared.

The force encamped at Mummastown proceeded by the way of Hunterstown, New Chester, Hampton and Berlin and encamped near Dover in York county, on Saturday night, evidently making for the turnpike between York and Harrisburg.

A report was brought here yesterday afternoon that rebel cavalry proceeded to Hanover Junction and burnt the cars there, four in number, and all the bridges from that point to York. We presume the bridges on the Hanover Branch were also destroyed.

There is no doubt that large numbers of horses were taken by the rebels in the lower part of this county, inflicting heavy losses upon the owners. It is to be hoped that the invaders will be overtaken, severely punished and the property of our citizens again restored to them.

Early's Raid to York.

M. L. Van Barmen of York, tells the following very interesting story of what Early's Division did after they left Gettysburg, when they arrived in York and what they did there.

For fully ten days previous to the entry of the Confederates there was a steady stream of farmers and merchants, with wagons, laden with merchandise, cattle and personal property of various kinds working their way down the Gettysburg pike from our adjoining counties of Adams, Franklin and Cumberland and portions of Maryland on their way through the borough down the Wrightsville pike over the Columbia bridge into Lancaster and Chester counties in great haste to escape capture from the advancing Confederates.

The merchants of York had sent the greater portion of their merchandise by rail to Philadelphia. Many private families buried their valuables in excavations made in gardens and cellars. Everyone was intensely excited not knowing what was in store for them and greatly fearing the consequence of coming events.

On Saturday morning, the 27th of June, it was known for a certainty that the Confederates were on their way toward York and beyond. Prominent and influential citizens of our borough met in the counting room of Messrs. P. A. & S. Small's hardware store for consultation and to devise means for the protection of our people. David Small was chief bargainer during this time. He with Messrs. Samuel Small, Sr., W. Latimer Small, George Hay, Thomas E. Cochran, one of York county's most prominent attorneys during this period, and father of the Honorable Richard Cochran of today, and Thomas White, and others I do not recall, were constituted a committee of safety. This meeting was called together about 8 o'clock in the morning, and was in continual consultation during the entire day.

Our worthy townsman, the Honorable A. B. Farquhar, Impulsive and full of vigor, (characteristics that were very essential at this time), took the initiative on his own responsibility and drove out the Gettysburg pike early on this Saturday morning to enter the enemy's lines and make sure of their intention. He drove into their lines a short distance on this side of Abbottstown, some twelve miles from York, and inquired for the commanding officers. He was escorted to the presence of General John B. Gordon, who was in command of a brigade of General Jubal Early's division of Ewell's corps. In a conversation with Generals Gordon and Early he was given a written article of agreement in which it was stated that upon their entering into York and its vicinity they would refrain from destroying private property and not molest women and children in their occupation but would expect a contribution of money and maintenance while there. He thereupon hastened his return to York and at once visited the committee that was in session in the counting rooms of Messrs. P. A. & S. Small, where he produced his communication with the assurance of its contents. Mr. Cochran, who was present, spoke up, "This is too good to be true." Mr. Farquhar insisted that a committee should be appointed authoritatively to go out to meet the Confederates and enter into a definite and official understanding. This was agreed to at once. Messrs. David Small, George Hay, Thomas White and Mr. Farquhar constituted this committee.

This occurred late on Saturday afternoon. They proceeded out the Gettysburg pike and into the lines of the Confederates, which had then reached the neighborhood of Farmers' postoffice, some seven or eight miles west of York. There they had an understanding of what might be expected by them upon Confederate occupation, as well as by the citizens of the borough. Generals Gordon and Early, together with the officers of their staffs, stipulated the following terms and requisition: The residents of York were to pay $100,000 in United States money together with a sufficient amount of clothing and food for the troops and horses while in the town and vicinity.

The committee agreed to do the best that could be done under the circumstances. The action of the committee was not generally known to the citizens as they did not return until late during the night. Sunday morning, June 28, the sun rose high in the clear sky over our peaceful borough. Groups of persons could be seen in eager and anxious discussion in and around Centre Square, while many others were on their way to the various churches and the church bells were ringing in the accustomed manner. About 10 o'clock a cloud of dust could be discerned rising out on the Gettysburg pike and an occasional bugle blast could be heard, indicating the approach of the Confederates. Then the citizens fully realized that their homes would be at the mercy of the armed invaders and were in the greatest dread of the consequences.

It took but a short time for them to arrive in the square, with General Gordon at their head. Along the curbing, on porches and boxes, in every direction, could be seen the tired and not very presentable troops, sitting or resting.

In the Center Square there were two market sheds, extending east and west. In the center was a large flag staff upon which floated the Stars and Stripes. General Gordon immediately ordered the lowering of the flag, and then proceeded on his way to Wrightsville, expecting to cross into Lancaster county and beyond over the bridge at said place, but upon his arrival there he found the bridge on fire and partly destroyed on the Wrightsville side, sufficient to check his advance. During this time the Confederates were continually arriving in York and vicinity.

About noon General Early with his staff, arrived and proceeded to the court house, where the committee of safety was in session, with Mr. Small, Chief Burgess, presiding. He was dressed in a new gray uniform and a black slouch hat, in which was a black ostrich feather. When he entered the session he repeated his demand and requisition previously made to the committee and had it placed in writing as follows: 165 barrels of flour or 28,000 pounds of baked bread, 3,500 pounds of sugar, 1,650 pounds of coffee, 500 gallons of molasses, 1,200 pounds of salt, 32,000 pounds of fresh beef or 21,000 of bacon or pork, the above to be delivered at the market house on Main street at 4 p. m. Signed by William W. Thornton, Captain, A. C. S.

In addition to the above the following was made for the use of General Early's command: 2,000 pairs of shoes or boots, 1,000 pairs of socks, 1,000 felt hats and $100,000 in United States money. Signed by C. E. Snodgrass, Major, and Chief Quartermaster, Early's division, approved by J. A. Early, Major General in command. Signed June 23, 1863. Some discussion took place between him and the committee when it was finally concluded that they would do the best they could. Samuel Small, Sr., Henry Welsh, Peter McIntyre and Thomas White, were appointed a committee to canvass and solicit among our business men and others of means, food, etc., to fill the required requisition. They succeeded in raising between $28,000 and $30,000 in money and about $15,000 or $18,000 in provisions, clothing, shoes, etc.

General Early's headquarters were established in the court house in the sheriff's office during the occupation. On Monday, the 29th, about noon, General Early began to complain that the demand laid down by him was not being filled as rapidly as he desired. In order to facilitate matters he started down to the depot on North Duke street, with the intention of, or at least threatening to burn the Northern Central Railroad corner shops, and Messrs. Billmeyer and Small's shops, together with those of Messrs. Pfeiffer, Jess and Nevins, which were all in the same vicinity. He said that it was reported to him that these shops were furnishing cars to the government. Samuel Small, Sr., David Small and Mr. Farquhar, tried to convince him that this was not the case and that by burning the shops it would endanger the whole northern portion of the borough, and that he would be violating the agreement which he entered into not to destroy private property. This discussion took place in the office of James Hopkins, who was the superintendent of the railroad company's interests here, a very aristocratic and emphatic official but a perfect gentleman.

While this discussion was going on, which was rather heated, especially on the part of Mr. Hopkins and General Early, a courier arrived in great haste with a dispatch from General Ewell for General Early stating that the Federal army under General Meade, was crossing the Potomac to intercept General Lee, and that he should retrace his steps immediately. General Early gave immediate orders for a general retreat, the preparation of which could be seen all that Monday evening and night. On the following Tuesday morning, the 30th, about 5 o'clock, the last of the invaders, General Early and his staff, left Center Square on their way to join General Lee at Gettysburg, where the great invasion of the Confederates was terminated in favor of the Union forces, and the star of the southern confederacy gradually went down and finally became extinct at Appomattox.

No one but those who were eye witnesses to the occupation of York can have any conception of the extent of anxiety and suspense of our people during these two days' occupation, which was relieved by their departure on Tuesday morning, June 30.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS Do Not Endanger Life When a 'Gettysburg' Citizen Shows You the Cure.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work. If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Read this Gettysburg testimony:

Mrs. J. Warren Gilbert, 130 W. Middle Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Since I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, two of my relatives have taken them and have been greatly benefited. I suffered terribly from backaches, headaches and dizzy spells and I knew that I had kidney complaint. Nothing relieved me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store. I am grateful for the benefit that they have brought and shall always recommend them."

Without Fear of Successful Contradiction, We Claim that the Ostermoor : Mattress : $15.00

is Better than all Others for these very Pertinent Reasons:

Most Comfortable bed ever slept on—soft, yielding, but springy and resilient—never packs or gets lumpy, or loses its feeling of newness. That is because it is made of Ostermoor sheets; built, not stuffed. We have scores of letters from doctors and competent judges who declare it the only

Absolutely sanitary mattress because dust cannot work into it; no vermin can harbor in it; a sun-bath is all the renovating it ever needs; it will not absorb dampness, disease germs, or any poison from perspiration or the atmosphere. It is always

Perfectly Dry because non-absorbent. If the ticking is dry, the mattress is dry. No taking cold from it, no unpleasant or musty odor about it; always fresh and sweet. Testimonials in our free book bear witness for those who have used it for thirty years or more and who do not hesitate to say that it Lasts a Life-time and stays in perfect condition. It never needs remarking or renovating. You may remove and clean the tick as often as you like.

No other mattress in the world, of any material, at any price, from any maker or through any dealer, can truthfully make and prove all the claims as can the Ostermoor. Do not take our word for it—our word is good—but if you will

Write for Free 144 Page Book, "THE TEST OF TIME"

The proof is there from U. S. Government tests and reports, letters from prominent men and women and the testimony of schools, hotels, hospitals and steamships where extraordinary service is required.

The book is handsome as well as convincing; contains over 200 illustrations—about beds of all ages about sleep, its lack (insomnia); about mattress-hair—some things will be surprising and you will wish you had known them long ago. Of course, it also explains the merits and styles of Ostermoor Mattresses, Church cushions, etc. This book costs you a post card; don't you wish a copy? ## Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for the weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG,
SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper cover. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

By an Act of Assembly of 1893, "All Deeds and Conveyances shall be recorded within ninety days after their execution or shall be adjudged fraudulent and void against subsequent purchasers."

Also the Act of Assembly of 1909, prescribes a short form of Deeds, and "again requires the recording to make them valid."

It is also a great protection against loss or deed being burned by having them recorded, and costs but a small sum, compared to getting a new deed. Bring or send them into the Recorder's office, and in a few days they will be returned to you.

EARLY'S RAID 48 YEARS AGO.

During the battle of Gettysburg, which occurred on July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, it was the custom of the boys of which I was one, to wander along the banks of the Codorus at a location known as Laurel Rock and Indian Steps, bathing places for boys. At these points the rattle of musketry and booming of cannon during the engagement could be distinctly heard.

The amount paid the Confederates and its equivalent in food, etc., was eventually assumed by the borough authorities, by levying a special tax on property owners which took several years to realize, but was finally paid.

Samuel Small, Sr., bears the distinction of being the only native of York who served on the staff of General Early during the invasion. Unsolicited, however, on the part of Mr. Small this promotion came about through the following incident: The firm which he represented conducted a mill known as Codorus mill, some three or four miles east of York. In this vicinity the famous Louisiana Tigers, which were part of the command of General Early, were located. Mr. Small became apprised that this command was violating the agreement not to destroy private property. He immediately waited on General Early at the court house to remonstrate.

While passing through the corridor of the court house he was halted by one of the guards stationed there and he promptly asked to be shown to the headquarters of General Early. He returned to the general what was being done and asked of the general that he should give him the necessary protection. The general stated that he would give him an order and a pass to proceed to the mill and have any depredations stopped. Mr. Small said that he would be more effectual if the general should send one of his own officers with those instructions. The general insisted, however, that he should take a horse from one of the members of his staff and proceed to the mill. It was finally agreed that Mr. Small would go; providing he could use one of his own horses which he had secreted in a warehouse adjacent to the store and which he prized very much. Mr. Small secured his horse from amidst barrels and boxes and proceeded out to the mills armed with the pass and order from General Early which was his only means of defense. Some two miles from York on his way, he was halted by four cavalymen who stated that he had the very horse they were looking for and attempted to take possession of the animal.

Mr. Small remonstrated and was only allowed to proceed after he had produced the pass from General Early. He proceeded to the mill and accomplished his end by serving on the staff of General Early on this occasion.

The committee which has been heretofore mentioned was untiring in its efforts for the security of the borough. Special mention is deserving on the part of our worthy townsman, A. B. Farquhar, who was a great factor in our preservation at that time. After the Confederates had left for a short while the committee was greatly censured to the compromise with the Confederates. In later years, however, the wisdom of this course was clearly shown, and the descendants of many of those who were benefitted by the course are reaping to-day the fruits of their wisdom.

The population of York at that time was 8,605. Quite a contrast to the city at the present time in position as well as from a commercial standpoint.

METHOD IN THEIR MADNESS

Timid Man Gets New Wrinkle as to the Management of the Church Bazar.

A timid man unused to the methods employed in the management of a church summer bazar looked with dismay upon the heap of china fragments that had been swept into one corner of the room.

"Did all this stuff get broken here to-night?" he asked.

The pretty attendant at a nearby booth assured him that it did.

"Then how on earth do you make any profit," he asked, "if so much of your stuff gets smashed?"

"Oh," said she candidly, "it's the smashing that counts. It is the funniest thing, but somehow everything happens to get broken just at the time when some person who is able to buy gets through looking at it, and as the guilty wretch feels that his carelessness may have caused the accident he squares himself with his conscience by paying about three times as much as the thing was worth. Wouldn't you like to look—"

She waved her hand above her own table full of fragile bric-a-brac.

"Not on your life!" said the timid man, and he backed off to a respectful and safe distance.

Dangerous Eggs.

A certain well known actor is always ready to assert that there are many untoward possibilities in his profession. "Really the public doesn't appreciate the vicissitudes of an actor's life," he said recently. "Now, there was Wislamb Brown, who went touring in South Africa. I met Wislamb's cousin recently. 'Well, how is Wislamb?' said I. 'Wislamb?' said the cousin. 'Why, man, Wislamb's dead?' 'Dead?' I cried. 'How did he die?' 'Felled to death with eggs at Cape Town,' the cousin answered. 'But eggs don't kill,' said I. He smiled sadly and murmured, 'Ostrich eggs do.'"

Financial.

"Mother, how big must I grow to be in a bank, like uncle?" asked the small boy.

"Not very much," said his father, "for I have often seen in the papers that cashiers are short."—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Useless.

"Mildred," murmured a fashionable young man, sinking on one knee, "for your birthday gift I offer—myself."

"Thank you," was the cold reply, "but I only accept useful presents!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WAR STORY BY PROF. HARRY

IN WHICH HE MEETS COLORED PEOPLE FLEEING FROM CO.

And is Told Various Happenings in Old Adams during the Stirring War Days.

Prof. J. B. Harry, a teacher of music well known in Adams County during Civil War times and now living at New Castle, Pa., recently told the story of how he carried the news of the Confederate advance to Governor A. G. Curtin, driving to Harrisburg and on the homeward drive on Saturday, June 27 he encountered a number of colored people fleeing from Adams County, but here is Prof. Harry's story of the return trip as he tells it.

I deemed it quite prudent to give him the rein on the home stretch to Gettysburg, which was thirty-six to forty miles away. It was 2 o'clock p. m. and the day was very warm, but in a trice, Charley (the horse) and I were measuring the old state road at a very rapid pace, and after having proceeded about three miles from the river, we saw persons running toward us and whose excited, pitiful appearance caused me to check up in order to investigate the cause of their very great distress, for I could compare them most favorably with a small flock of sheep which in my younger days I had seen chased by dogs when one of them in its great effort to save itself, fell dead (of fright) at my feet. While these unfortunate pedestrians were yet a short distance off, I called to them asking what it all means, but the man was so much overcome with fear and joy that he could scarcely articulate a word, though between his paroxysms of fright and gladness he made out to ask, "Don't yer 'no me?" I said, "I can't tell (for the dust on your face has all been converted into mud) whether you are a white, or a colored man." "I tell yo 'who I is, I is George Reed, Mr. Shively's hossler at Fairfield. Yo' nos me shore, an' I node de hoss soonz I seed him and de hoss no's me. Jes luk, mum an' children, how he's smellin' fo' oats soonz he kums neah me, dats so, dats hoss 'nose me 'way off yuk. Yu' n'ice Charley (pats him on the neck). U'n' I'll nevah for'git yo' nohr yo' when yo' kum to Fairfield." "Yes, Mistah, George allus say when yo' come, dat man he nebbet calls me niggah, an' nebbet swars at me, but he say, 'George, will yo' pleas' hitch up Charley fo' me?' Dat is de way George lik's yo' Mistah," said Mrs. Reed. "An dat is de reason we' all commenced to cry lik' babies we'd see'd yo' comin' yo' see we was so glad to see somebody dat wudn't ska'r us go 'bout de Rebels kotchin us an' takin' our chil'len fum us an' sellin' 'em to de drivvans an' we wud nevah see dem ag'in. Now yo' 'nose what made us cry soo, fer we 'nowed yo'd tell us de truth."

"Now, George and Mrs. Reed," I said, "I do not want to scare you, but you are all very nearly dead, I can see that, and you are now forty miles from your home at Fairfield, by the way of Gettysburg. When did you leave your home?" "Mistah Harry we done lef' home yist'dy mornin' fore da lite. Yo' see de Rebells kum pas' all nite, an' Mr. Sullivan an' Mr. Shively dey sa, 'George, yo' bettah go to Ha'ssburg soon as yo' kin an take yo're an' all de chillens, koz when he las' of dem kums 'long, dey'll tak yo' all wid 'em,' so we jis all runned fo' da 'lite froo Mistah Musselman's big kohn field an' de Rabs dey don koodn't see us 'mong dat big kohn. Mr. Sullivan, he say, 'George, keep yo' iee wide op'n to dat big mounting on de lef' han' side all de way to de ribber.'" so thoughtful, it very kind in Mr. Sullivan to point you to that big mountain for a guide on your left hand all the way, and he knew that it would lead you through the gap at Dillsburg, then you would be fifteen miles from the river where I crossed it about an hour ago. But George, you must all sit down under that shade tree and rest and I will stay here in the buggy till you have time to tell me all you know of the movements of the Rebels. "Oh! Mistah Harry, iee so feerd day'll kotch us ef we stops yuh." "No, George, listen to me; you are three miles from the river, and between where you are now and the river, there are thousands of our Union soldiers, and I don't want you to be scared for you know that I will tell you the truth all the time; some of the soldiers may try to scare you, but you must not pay any attention to what they say; walk, do not run a step, for you will get to the bridge long before it is dark, and when you cross the river, you will be in Harrisburg." "I see so glad. No sah, Mistah Harry, we'll nevah for'git yo' long us we lives. An' ole farmer Kittinger say he'll nevah for'git yo' fo' savin' all his fine hosses and cows an' beef cattle de nite w'en Etna'd's Rebel soldiers kum down de track from Chambe'sbu'g an' Cashtown, to Fairfield."

"Not one of them," she explained to the manager of the agency, "likes to eat the things that we like."

"But what difference does that make?" asked the manager. "They are no doubt good cooks for all that."

"Possibly, but they wouldn't suit me," said the woman decidedly. "My family have very pronounced tastes in regard to cookery, and my experience has taught me that only a cook who likes the same dishes can prepare them satisfactorily. It stands to reason that any cook who likes certain dishes will have better luck with them than one who doesn't like them, consequently I'll do the work myself until I find a girl whose taste agrees with ours."—New York Press.

Would Excuse Her.

"The butler in a Scotch family occupies a privileged and unique position," said a Scot to some friends who were discussing the servant problem. "He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech that to Americans would be an impertinence, but to those that know him this is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare."

"A young lady from New York was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigns. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement. One day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, a fact that caused the butler a little while before the meal was served to waylay the American girl in the hall."

"I'm fearin' there 'll no be enough soup," he explained, "so when it's offered ye mam, line it, lass."

"Why," was the laughing response of the girl, "it wouldn't be polite of me to decline soup."

"Not precisely," said the butler, with a benignant smile, "but they'll a' make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye ken nae better."

Wars That Were Caused by Women.

I do not think that any one is ignorant, my friends, that the greatest wars have taken place on account of women—the Trojan war on account of Helen, the plague which came in it was on account of the Jews and the war called the seven years war on account of Theano. This war lasted ten years. The Crissaeen war, which also lasted ten years, was excited on this account—because the Crissaeans carried off Megiste, the daughter of Pelagon, and the daughters of the Argives as they were returning from the temple.

And whole families have been ruined owing to women. For instance, that of Philip, the father of Alexander, was ruined on account of his marriage with Cleopatra, and Hercules was ruined by his marriage with Iole.—Athenaeus, A. D. 300

Hypercriticism of Cooks.

In a Sixth avenue employment agency ten cooks out of a job waited one afternoon recently for something to turn up. Presently a well dressed woman who was short of servants applied at the desk for the desired help. The manager referred her to the ten cooks. The woman interviewed each of them in turn, with unsatisfactory results.

"Not one of them," she explained to the manager of the agency, "likes to eat the things that we like."

"But what difference does that make?" asked the manager. "They are no doubt good cooks for all that."

"Possibly, but they wouldn't suit me," said the woman decidedly. "My family have very pronounced tastes in regard to cookery, and my experience has taught me that only a cook who likes the same dishes can prepare them satisfactorily. It stands to reason that any cook who likes certain dishes will have better luck with them than one who doesn't like them, consequently I'll do the work myself until I find a girl whose taste agrees with ours."—New York Press.

STATE DEMOCRACY.

On July 19, the Democratic State Committee will meet in Harrisburg and the minority for Dewalt may seek to bring matter of state chairman up and if they do, the majority will likely declare that that matter was settled several months ago by the election of George W. Guthrie.

The reply of State Chairman Guthrie to the letter of Walter E. Ritter of Williamsport to get out of the way, will likely be given the stamp of approval by the reorganization majority in the committee, for it is up to the minority to gracefully submit to the will of the majority. This reply of Guthrie's was sent last week and is as follows:

My Dear Sir:—Yours of the 10th in hand received. You ask me to surrender an office which was given me in confidence that I would retain and exercise it unless relieved by those who trusted me, under an implied threat that if I do not comply certain persons dissatisfied with the action of the State Central Committee will organize and maintain a rump committee, and a promise that if I do "my action will meet a generous approval."

This is the substance of your request and the mere statement of it, stripped of superfluous words which tend to obscure its effect, ought to satisfy you that I cannot accept it.

Your plan might produce a "united organization" for after it was consummated there would be no one in it except those opposed to reorganization; but it would be an "organization" without a "party."

At the last election more than two-thirds of the party plainly declared that they would no longer follow the old leaders or submit any longer to the party methods which had prevailed for several years; and after the election hundreds of Democrats in every section of the State who had voted the ticket declared both in public and private that they had done so for the last time, unless there was a complete change in the personnel of the "organization" and in its methods and policies.

At its meeting in March last the State Central Committee responded to the demand for a change, and removed the chairman and other officers, and appointed a special committee with instructions to fill the vacancies thus created and proceed with a complete reorganization of the party.

Let me remind you that Mr. Dewalt presided at this meeting; entertained the report and resolutions of the McCormick committee, overruled the objections to them and submitted them for consideration and action. You offered a substitute, which was defeated, and both you and Mr. Dewalt spoke and voted on both your substitute and the original.

After the adoption of these resolutions Mr. Dewalt joined in the creation of the "Reorganization Committee" as authorized thereby and appointed you a member of it; and you and the other members appointed by him accepted the appointment, served on the committee, and participated in its deliberations, although you did not concur with the majority.

If Mr. Dewalt considered this action beyond the power of the committee he should have so ruled when the question was before him, and above all should have refused to join in the appointment of the committee; if you believed so, you should not have offered a substitute and should not have served on the committee.

As you both voluntarily submitted your claims, first to the State Central Committee and then to the "Reorganization Committee," fair-minded men think that you should accept the result.

If you will not, what assurance have we that you will abide by the action of the committee if we accept your proposition and that committee re-elects Mr. Palmer and me?

The hopefulness and enthusiasm of the splendid meeting of representative Democrats from every section of the State at Harrisburg on the 15th shows the spirit of the party. In that whole great gathering I only heard two men who favored the acceptance of your proposition, while every one else who spoke to me on the subject (and hundreds did) said that I owed it to the party to refuse.

You are radically wrong if you suppose that this is merely a personal contest between Mr. Dewalt and me; but even if it were, I could not enter into any such agreement as you propose.

When Democrats openly struggled for the candidate they supported or the policies they approved until the selection was made by the party, the party itself was a vital, living and hopeful force; but its decadence began when the practice was inaugurated of settling all contests by deals.

Do you not know that the assumption by one or more men of the right to dictate party officers, policies and candidates is bitterly resented by the Democrats of this State, and that they will no longer follow the party when its action is so forestalled?

The position I hold was given me in the assertion of the right, power and duty of the State Central Committee to change its officers whenever it believed that a change was required for the best interests of the party.

I believe this right and power are inherent in such a committee and, under our system of party organization, are essential to political freedom; and I also believe that it was the duty of the committee to recognize the dangers which confronted the party and its demand for immediate reorganization.

On this position, I cannot compromise. To do so, would be to betray the confidence of those who acted on the faith of my opinion and deservedly forfeit their respect.

I do not anticipate the evil results which you fear in case some persons dissatisfied at the loss of control should organize a committee of bolters and improperly call themselves the State Central Committee; the members of the party will have no trouble in settling for themselves which one to follow. And at the worst, it could not continue after the next primary. But if any confusion should unfortunately follow, the party will place the blame where it belongs and visit sure punishment on the wrong-doers.

Neither does your expressed desire to make the Democratic party a strong minority party appeal to me. That has been the policy too long, and has brought the party to the third place in the State, and in some sections has sunk it below the Socialists.

A party content to be a minority party and to occupy itself with the control and distribution of minority patronage has no just excuse for its existence.

Let us honestly strive to make the Democratic party the majority in this State. To do this, we must first free it from practices and policies which have excited resentment and forfeited public confidence.

If we could win we must recover the respect and confidence of those Democrats who have lost faith and hope in the party, and convince the Independent voters who are disgusted with the "Machine" and the young men who are just entering upon the duties and responsibilities of their citizenship, that to put the Democratic party into power is not simply to substitute one "Machine" for another, but the putting in of a party ready, able and willing to ensure their political freedom, and to give the State honest administration and wise legislation designed solely for public good.

I have issued notice fixing the time and place of meeting of the State Central Committee as is my duty. Let all who seek only the best interests of the party assemble under that notice, and let the majority decide.

Either the "reorganizers" or the "standpaters" will have an equal right and opportunity to appeal to the party at the primary if that decision is not satisfactory.

Judges' Pension Bill a Law.

Governor Tener on last Friday signed the judges retirement bill which gives half pay for rest of life. The judges' retirement bill allows judges of the appellate courts, common pleas or orphans' courts, who may be retired by the governor to receive full pay for the balance of their term provided they hold themselves in readiness to advise with successors and colleagues and to act as masters, referees, auditors or examiners. Judges of common pleas or orphans' courts serving twenty-five years continuously immediately prior to date of resignation and having reached 70 years of age, and judges of the higher courts serving for twenty years who shall resign and be ready to act as master and in other capacities, shall receive during remainder of life one-half of the salary of the office from which he retired. Any judge of the appellate courts who shall serve twenty years continuously and any judge of a county court who shall have reached the age of 70 and served continuously for twenty-five years and shall hold himself in readiness to advise or perform such duties as required after his honorable retirement from office by expiration of term, resignation or otherwise, is also to receive for life one-half of the salary he would have received in active service. Judges retiring can receive no extra compensation. Judges desiring to retire must notify the Governor or the Governor on his own initiative may notify any one. Vacancies so created are to be filled as required by law.

In Adams county resolution for a third term so that a judge could serve twenty-five years would make possible retirement on a pension of $2,000 a year for remainder of life.

The Woolen Bill Passes House.

The Underwood Woolen Bill, eliminating the iniquities of schedule "K", and reducing its rates 50 per cent, passed the House of Representatives, late on Tuesday afternoon of last week by a vote of 221 to 100. Only one Democrat, Francis of Ohio voted against the bill, he having pledged himself to his constituents in a heavy wool raising district, not to vote for a reduction of the rates. Our own Mr. Latham and all the Pennsylvania Republicans voted against the interests of the masses as they usually do, when special privileges are involved.

On a vote of 20 yeas to 18 nays in the Senate its committee on finance, with Penrose as chairman, must report the House Wool Bill, not later than July 10th, to the Senate. Penrose in his vexation declared that there was no longer a Republican majority in the Senate; he meant that the Senate had thrown off the control of special privilege.

Can You Get Hot Water
When You Want It?

CAN you get hot water at the turn of the faucet when there are no fires in the house—without waiting, or without lighting any heating device?

Can you always get hot water, even though there has been an unusual call upon the supply by other members of the family?

Can you get all the hot water you want the first thing in the morning or late at night? If not, you are missing one of the modern conveniences easily available in every home.

This miracle worker, which will give you an unlimited supply of hot water at any time of day or night, is called the RUUD AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER. It requires no attention. You do not have to light it or put it out—all you do is turn the faucet and hot water flows. The best idea of a RUUD may be had from an actual demonstration. Call at our salesrooms and see the RUUD in actual operation.

The RUUD AUTOMATIC GAS WATER HEATER is brought into the cellar and connected with the water and gas pipes. A tiny pilot light is lighted and that is the end as far as you are concerned.

When the hot water faucet is open, the pressure of water operates a valve which turns on the gas in the burner—turning off the faucet automatically puts out the gas.

For reasons of economy and to prevent the water from getting too hot a temperature regulator automatically turns down the gas every time the water reaches a certain temperature, and automatically turns it on as the water starts to cool. This is the most wonderful part of the RUUD—it allows only enough gas to be burned to keep the water hot, and only the water that is actually used is heated.

DEATH OF AN AGED MOTHER

MRS. HENRY P. BARBEHENN
LIVED HERE OVER 50 YEARS.

Two Sudden Deaths—One of Mason
at His Work and Other at Work in a Shoe Factory.

Mrs. HENRY P. BARBEHENN died last Wednesday, June 21, at her home in this place, aged 78 years, 7 months and 5 days. Mrs. Barbehenn's maiden name was Mary U. Bortner. She was a native of Codorus township, York county, but had been a resident of Gettysburg for fifty-one years. Had she lived until December, the fiftieth anniversary of her marriage to Mr. Barbehenn would have been celebrated. She was a member of the Lutheran church for sixty-one years. She was a devoted wife and mother and a good neighbor, with a warm heart always ready with a kind word for children and others. Mrs. Barbehenn leaves her husband and eight children, Lewis Barbehenn of Brodbeck, York county, Geo. W. Barbehenn of Palmyra, Ohio, Henry W. Barbehenn, a proof reader with Scribner's Publishing Company, New York, Nathaniel Barbehenn, in the government service in Philadelphia, Sister Mary J. B. Barbehenn, deaconess in Mary J. Drexel Home, Philadelphia, Miss Annie Musser of Gettysburg, Miss Katie Barbehenn and Edward Barbehenn at home. She also leaves nineteen grandchildren. The funeral was held Saturday morning. The services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker who took as his text Isa. 66-13, "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you." Frank Rudisill, Jacob Rudisill, Miss Pauline Rudisill and Miss Mary Rudisill sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Face to Face." The pall bearers were Prof. Karl Grimm, W. H. Sharetts, Duffield Ridinger, Herman Mertz, Henry Kalbfleisch and J. A. Lentz. The floral offerings were beautiful including several from the deaconesses of the Mary J. Drexel Home, Philadelphia. The interment was in Evergreen Cemetery.

WILLIAM L. WOLFORD of Hanover, an edge trimmer employed by the Hanover Shoe Company, died suddenly from an attack of heart disease last Thursday, while at work at his machine in the new factory on Carlisle street. Mr. Wolford when stricken sank in his chair in an unconscious condition. Employees ran to his assistance and one of the number summoned Dr. J. H. Bittinger, who arrived in a few minutes, to find life extinct. Mr. Wolford was one of the oldest employees of the Shoe Company, having been employed by the present company since its organization and previously with other shoe factories in Hanover—in all a period of about 20 years. He was aged about 38 years. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford of Hanover and was married thirteen years ago to Miss Laura Anthony of same place, who survives him, with two children, Catharine and Richard. He is also survived by two brothers, John Wolford of Chambersburg, and Albert Wolford of Hanover, and four sisters, Miss Lillie Wolford of Hanover, Mrs. Felix Elmer of McSherrytown, Mrs. Anna Cascaden of Canada, and Mrs. William E. Kurode of Hanover. Also a step-brother and one step-sister.

THOMAS J. BIDDLE died at his Water street home last Saturday evening aged 42 years. He has been railroad conductor for a number of years and during several past years has been a freight conductor on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad between Gettysburg and Harrisburg. He was held in high regard by all who were associated with him and knew him. He leaves a wife and two daughters, Stella and May Biddle at home, and is survived by his father, Wm. E. Biddle of this place, four sisters and one brother, Mrs. Isaac Kauffman, Mrs. Daniel Fuhrman and Wm. Biddle of this place, Mrs. George White of Hanover and Mrs. John Mehrling of Brush Run. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon and body was taken to Bendersville on Wednesday where further services were held and where interment was made.

JOHN W. KRAFT died at about half past two Tuesday morning of last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Reuben Lower, Menallen township, aged 74 years, 3 months and 28 days. Mr. Kraft was born in Maryland but since he was thirteen years of age had been living in Adams county with the exception of four or five years spent in Waynesboro. For the last two years he lived with Mr. and Mrs. Lower. He leaves besides his daughter, one son, Samuel Kraft of Menallen township. Funeral on last Thursday, interment in Greenmount Cemetery, Arendtsville.

WILLIAM W. SCHURM after an illness of four days from paralysis, died at his home, in York county on Monday, June 19, aged about 43 years. Mr. Schurm was engaged on the mason work of the new residence of C. N. Myers of Hanover on Wednesday previous, when he was suddenly stricken with paralysis, which affected his left side and rendered him helpless. He was taken to his home and his family physician, Dr. T. C. Miller, of Abbottstown, summoned. The deceased is survived by his wife, who before her marriage was Miss Maggie Baublitz, and two sons, Paul and Raymond and 1 daughter, Maude. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Geo. Schurm of Jackson township, York county, two sisters, Mrs. Jane Day of Smith Station, and Mrs. Geo. Miller of Spring Grove, and one brother, Clayton Schurm of McSherrytown.

MERVIN H. BUCHER, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Bucher of near Littlestown, died at the York City Hospital on Sunday morning, June 18, aged 24 years, 11 months and 16 days. Mr. Bucher went to the hospital on Tuesday morning June 13. Deceased is survived by his parents and one brother, Dennis. Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning, meeting at the house at 9 o'clock. Interment and services being held at St. Luke's church, near Red Land, Rev. J. Stewart Hartman officiating.

DANIEL STAUB died at his home in Oxford township, near New Oxford, on last Thursday, June 22, of consumption, aged about 39 years. The deceased was a former well known farmer in the vicinity of his home. He was a son of Mrs. Catharine Staub of New Oxford, and besides his mother is survived by a widow and six children—Lawrence, Bernard, Leo, Edwin, Catharine and Margaret. Also by three sisters and four brothers, as follows: Mrs. John S. Weaver, Mrs. Harry Starner and Miss Margaret Staub of New Oxford, James and Leo Staub of Berlin Junction, John Staub of New Oxford, and William Staub of Hanover. Funeral Monday, June 26, mass of requiem in Immaculate Conception church at 9 a. m., Rev. John L. Shields celebrant. Interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

MARY ANN BECK, who had been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. William Evans, near Spring Grove, died Sunday night, June 18th. Mrs. Beck had been suffering with dropsy for the past thirteen weeks, although she was not confined to bed until last Wednesday. She was 70 years, 8 months and 23 days old. Mrs. Beck is survived by two sons, John Beck of Bigmont, and Joseph Beck of York and three daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Reynolds of East Berlin, Sarah Ransell of York, and Mrs. William Evans, with whom she resided. Funeral from her late home last Wednesday, June 21, interment at the Altland church cemetery near Bigmont.

ALBERT C. HARDMAN died in the Washington City Tuberculosis Hospital aged 44 years, 1 month and 11 days. Albert Hardman was born in Emmitsburg, the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Hardman. He lived with his parents in early boyhood in Leitersburg and later in Waynesboro. There he learned the barber trade. When quite young he went to Baltimore, but for the past twenty years lived in Washington where he was employed as a barber. Those surviving are a wife and three children, three brothers and three sisters. Mrs. C. H. Wenschott of near Gettysburg, Mrs. Clara Shook of Philadelphia, Mrs. Ella Peters of Waynesboro, William of Toledo, Ohio, John of Pen-Mar, Clifford of Waynesboro.

ALBERT C. WIEST, a native and for many years a resident of Littlestown, was found dead in bed at his home in York last Wednesday morning. Mr. Wiest was about 49 years of age. Tuesday evening he retired in his usual health and his death was most unexpected. Mr. Wiest had been at his work on Tuesday as usual. He was a blacksmith and had been engaged in that occupation in York machine shops for 20 years. Three years ago he accepted a position at one of the automobile plants in York and was occupied in that work until the time of his death. Mr. Wiest was married and leaves his wife and four children. One brother, Daniel Wiest of Gettysburg, also survives together with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Wiest of Gettysburg. Funeral was held last Saturday morning at Littlestown.

VIOLA CRUSHONG, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crushong, of Kingsdale, died last Tuesday morning from a complication of diseases, aged 10 months.

SAMUEL HOFFHEINS died June 20th at the County Home from a complication of diseases, aged 87 years. Deceased formerly resided in N. W. Oxford and his remains were taken to that place for interment.

AMOS H. PETERS died last Friday noon, June 23, at his home near Biglerville aged 65 years. Mr. Peters complained of feeling ill after dinner and went to bed. Later he arose and fell back on the bed. A physician was summoned but before medical assistance arrived Mr. Peters had expired. He leaves a wife and one son, Curtis Peters, who lives near his parent's home. Funeral on Monday, interment in the Biglerville Cemetery.

MRS. CHARLOTTE ELEANOR H. HERSH, widow of G. Edward Hersh, a native of this county, and brother of ex-Sheriff James Hersh, died last Saturday at her home in York. She was one of the best known women of that city. She was a native of Ireland, educated there, coming to York when 16 years old. She leaves two daughters and one son, Mrs. Smyser Williams and George Harry B. King of York, and George Hersh in the West.

JOSEPH RODDY, son of Mrs. Laura Roddy, formerly of this place, died in Phila. Monday morning from consumption aged 26 yrs. He had been living in the city about eight years, having lived here prior to that time. The body was brought on Tuesday evening to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Emma Rimer on Baltimore street. The funeral will be held this Wednesday morning in St. Francis Xavier church, services being conducted by Rev. Father Whalen and interment will be made in the Catholic Cemetery. He is survived by his mother and brother, Martin Roddy.

WM. SPAHR of East Berlin died last Friday of pneumonia after an illness of several days aged 71 years, 10 months and 29 days. The funeral was held on Sunday, services in Lutheran Church of East Berlin and interment at Holtswam Cemetery. He leaves a widow, one daughter by his first wife, Mrs. Willis Moul, of York county, and one son and one daughter by his second wife, Curtis of York, and Anna at home. He is survived by two brothers, Samuel Spahr of York and Eli Spahr of Reading township.

JOHN W. BROWN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brown, near Emmitsburg, died on last Thursday aged 16 years, 9 months and 11 days. He complained of being ill for a week and was only considered seriously ill until a day and a half before he died. Interment was in the Evergreen Cemetery of this place last Saturday. He is survived by his parents, one sister and one brother, Minnie and Charles Brown.

MRS. LEVI STOCK of New Oxford died on Sunday aged 78 years and 7 months. She fell several months ago breaking a hip and about a week ago received a stroke of paralysis. The funeral will be held this Wednesday morning, services by her pastor, Rev. C. W. Baker. She leaves besides her husband one daughter and two sons, Mrs. Amos Sponseller of near White Hall, Uriah Stock of near New Oxford and Albert Stock of Littlestown. Mrs. A. H. Parr of White Hall was a sister

DANIEL H. BENNER died at his home in this place on Monday evening from heart trouble and dropsy aged 78 years, 7 months and 2 days. He was born in Straban township, where he lived and followed farming for many years. He lived in Hanover for 18 years and two years ago came to Gettysburg. His wife died in June, 1906. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock from home of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Leister on Steinwehr avenue with interment in the Evergreen Cemetery. He leaves six children, John C. Benner and Mary E. Benner of Jersey City, James D. of Tacoma, Wash., Jacob of York, Miss Ella E. Benner and Mrs. Leister of Gettysburg. One brother survives, Moses C. Benner of Mt. Joy township.

Gettysburg Appropriations.

Governor Tener has reduced the appropriation of $50,000 passed by the legislature for further additions to the Pennsylvania monument, recently erected at Gettysburg, to $40,000 and has signed the measure for that amount.

The money will be used to place on the pedestals between the columns on the four sides of the monument eight bronze statues, one of Abraham Lincoln, one of Governor Curtin, and one of each of six generals. Part of the appropriation will be used towards converting into a more attractive place the grounds surrounding the monument, while the remainder will be devoted to correcting mistakes on the bronze tablets which were made in compiling the lists of Pennsylvania soldiers who fought at Gettysburg.

In addition to the $40,000 appropriation Governor Tener signed the bill providing for $20,147.91 to cover the deficit in the account of the Pennsylvania Monument Commission following the dedication of the memorial last fall. This is principally to cover the expense of the railroad fares of the various veterans to Gettysburg.

Governor Tener has also signed the bill appropriating $50,000 for Pennsylvania's share in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg.

A BIG BARGAIN.

One Crown Point Bull Dog Combine Feed Grinder, will grind 25 bushels of corn ears into fine chop in one hour. This would be a grand investment for some one who has an engine over 4-horse power. We will hold it a week or so, then reship it. Come quick we will sell a 4-horse power engine cheap. S. S. W. Hammers.

Church of the Brethren Conference.

The "York Daily" in speaking of the hopes of York in securing the national conference of the Church of the Brethren in 1912, says:

"York will probably be decided upon as the place for holding the 1912 national annual conference of the church of the Brethren, which is frequently attended by crowds ranging in size from 20,000 to 40,000 persons."

"Gettysburg and Pen-Mar will be the only serious competitors to York. If York is selected the conference will be held at the fair grounds, where a tabernacle will be erected that will seat a congregation of 6,000 persons. This would be a temporary structure."

"It having been decided to hold the conference of 1912 in this district, one of the greatest gatherings in the history of the church is looked forward to, and if held in York not less than 30,000 persons are expected. There are several reasons for this. In the first place the great bulk of the membership of the church is in the East, the four districts of Pennsylvania containing one quarter of the entire membership of the denomination. Then the desire of the Western members to visit the East is general. Thousands of Westerners never neglect the opportunity which a conference in the East offers for them to visit the homes of their ancestors or of their youth. Another reason which is favorable for a large attendance is that the visitors, once in York, are close to Washington and Gettysburg, both of which points are great attractions for the Westerners, and excursions will be frequent to these places."

Gettysburg has hopes that it will be selected as the place for this annual conference, as offering a site more advantageous than any that might be found, in the Springs Hotel property and surroundings, adequate in every way and ideal. As the thousands coming East will want to see where the cementing of peace began at Gettysburg, in the crucible of war, an ideal site at Gettysburg would be an unsurpassable location. A committee composed of R. C. Miller, J. B. Wine-man and Bert Widders have charge of preliminary work in presenting claims of Gettysburg.
